To whom it may concern,

The non-profit organization, Port Curtis Sailing Club INC. has been Market Testing the complete web editing package business proposal as put forward by Jason Keable to supply a new business service & associated Internet Service allowing non-technical persons to edit web sites.

Macromedia Contribute 3 web editing Software & a license obtained to be installed on a computer within our network along with complete domain, hosting & email services, we allocated one employee of the club the time to receive a series of training sessions in relation to the use & evaluation of the package.

We understand that this package is not currently commercially available, but have made a decision that it is a perfect solution to our web site & Internet requirements for the club & it's members.

Port Curtis Sailing Club INC. has made a one off payment to Jason Keable to cover his costs associated with setting up the market testing material, software, licenses, training & web server services required to fully test & evaluate the package in relation to our business.

In support of the new business idea proposed by Jason Keable, we intend to pursue/obtain the completed service once it is released through his new business idea for commercial sale.
